

Supplemental Journal of the Xterminators

Enlightening the Masses to Mystra's Grace

Written by Nathaniel Moonwayne, Paladin of Mystra

Note from the DM (Preface): What follows (after the solid line-break) is the documented journal from one of the players in my D&D Campaign. I have only added this preface (with title) and a postscript at the bottom of the document.

This particular journal entry (adventure notes) was written by one of our 'Drop-In' players. Nathaniel is normally played by David H. Unfortunately, David H. was unable to make it to our meeting on the 20th of June, and I sent out a support request to our 'Drop-In' players list. Thankfully, the support request was sent out with adequate lead time, and David S. responded to the request in a positive manner. David S. was available and eager to play with our group on the 20th of June. Seeing / Knowing that David H. often provides a journal entry, David S. did his best to provide notes for David H. Given the nature of the notes provided, I decided to publish them as a 'Supplemental' journal entry.

There may be discrepancies in the content (dates, people, places, creatures, misspellings). I have not edited the content* to make corrections/campaign standardization.

Regardless of whether there are typos, grammar errors, or campaign inconsistent content, the journal entries written by players in our campaign are valuable and appreciated by all.

These notes pick up on the 27th of Detenday (In-Game date), day 88 of the adventure... I think. It's possible the dates might be 'messed up'. We seem to be missing a day between David H's Chapter 4 journal, and this supplemental Chapter 5 journal entry.

Note that there are occasions in the journal where the narrative (as Nathaniel) switches to 'Player' names vs 'Character' names. As mentioned above. I made no effort to normalize or edit these notes. I am presenting them as a 'Journal', but they are written as notes for the players. The author didn't necessarily write them as a journal entry (from the Character's point of view)

Note from the DM (Postscript): The preceding (above the solid line-break) is the documented journal from one of the players in my D&D Campaign (Drop-In player David S. playing Nathaniel Moonwayne (the Paladin)). I have only added a preface (with title) and this postscript at the bottom of the document.

PS: I made no changes to the journal entry (above), and hope that readers will overlook any irrelevant typos, variant spellings, and or other factual (per the Campaign) inaccuracies.

Thank you to David S. for producing these adventure notes – The DM/CM of the “Rob’s World! D&D Campaign” - Robert Vaessen
