

My 2004 resume was take off-line for updates a long time ago.

(back in 2005)

It has since become obsolete, which explains this document.

If you'd like to see a copy of my most recent resume, point your browser to my resume page.

<http://www.robsworld.org/resume.html>

(fyi: If your browser/pdf viewer doesn't redirect to my webpage, you'll have to enter the URL into your browser manually)

If you're a spider, or some sort of security manager, you might like to know that:

- a. Access to my resume(s) are restricted by a robots.txt file.
- b. My resume(s) are encrypted, and I only give out the password to prospective employers (and other select individuals).
- c. My resume(s) have been cleared by appropriate security office(s), and they do not contain any classified/sensitive information.